A sample built from real finance roles posting pay, for an example FP&A Manager in Atlanta, GA. Your report uses your own role, pay and location.

FINANCEGIGS COMPENSATION INTELLIGENCE · PERSONAL COMPENSATION REPORT

FP&A Manager

Manager · Atlanta, GA

Live market data: 5,380 finance roles posting pay in the last 120 days, refreshed every hour. As of November 13, 2026 at 2:06 PM ET.

$128K	$132K	43th	$132K
your base	median, Atlanta area	your percentile	what to ask for (+3.1%)

Where you stand

Your base is at the Atlanta area median of $132K, at about the 43rd percentile.

A reasonable ask is $132K, a 3.1% increase, which brings you to the market median.

Your last raise of 3% trailed national budgets of 3.2-3.5% for 2027, so your pay has likely slipped against the market.

18 employers posted 28 roles like yours in Atlanta area in the last 4 months.

Your pay in every market

Market	25th	Median	75th	Roles	You
Atlanta area	$111K	$132K	$168K	28	43th
South Atlantic	$122K	$142K	$166K	171	29th
United States	$125K	$143K	$169K	1478	28th

Market	25th	Median	75th	Roles	You
Remote roles	$120K	$144K	$168K	181	34th

Compared with all Manager-level roles (too few titled like "FP&A Manager" post pay in your area).

What to ask for $132K, a 3.1% increase: brings you to the market median. Your stretch figure is $168K, the 75th percentile.

If the budget is fixed, ask for one of these instead:

- A written review in 6 months with the target figure agreed now
- A higher bonus target (yours is 12%)
- A title that matches the scope you now carry
- Paid training or a certification (CPSM, CIPS)
- More remote or flexible days

For 2027, WTW reports planned salary increase budgets of 3.4%, Mercer 3.2% merit and 3.5% total, and The Conference Board 3.5%.

Who is hiring people like you

18 employers posted 28 roles like yours in Atlanta area in the last 4 months, including Fortna, Cox, New Relic, The Coca-Cola Company, Target, Salesforce. Use it as the case for staying and growing where you are, not as a threat to leave.

Talking points

1. Roles like mine in Atlanta area post a median base of $132K; at $128K I'm at about the 43rd percentile.
2. Since my last review my scope has grown: Took over the monthly forecast for two more business units.
3. I lead a team of 2.
4. This year: Cut the close by two days.
5. This year: Built the new driver-based forecast.
6. This year: Led the Adaptive Planning rollout.
7. 18 employers posted roles like mine in Atlanta area in the last 4 months, so the skills I bring are in demand. I want to keep building them here.
8. I'm asking for $132K, a 3.1% increase, which brings you to the market median.

If they push back

“The raise budget is fixed at about 3%.”
I understand. Can we close the rest of the gap with a market adjustment outside the merit budget, or agree on a date and an amount for the rest?

“That is above the band for your role.”
Then the band may be behind the market. Could we review it against current postings like these, or look at whether my role belongs in the next band?

“Let's revisit next cycle.”
I can work with that if we agree the figure now and put a review date in writing.

“Your performance is good, but not exceptional.”
What would exceptional look like by the next review? I'd like to agree on those goals and the pay that goes with them.

Ask for the meeting

Subject: Time to talk about my pay

Hi [manager's name],

Could we set aside 30 minutes before my review in February to talk about my role and pay? I've pulled together what I've delivered this year and how my scope has grown, along with current market pay for roles like mine, and I'd like to share it with you.

Thank you,
[Your name]

Sources and limits

Pay ranges employers posted on finance roles we sync from their own career sites, over the last 120 days, as of November 13, 2026 at 2:06 PM ET. Each posting counts once, at the midpoint of its range; hourly rates are annualized at 2,080 hours. Markets with fewer than 8 roles posting pay are not shown. These are posted base pay, not what people are paid, and leave out bonus and equity. Your pay is private to you and is never shown to an employer. This report helps you make your case; it can't promise a raise.